

The International Center of the Upstate Presents:

A Dimly Burning Wick

Memoir from the Ruins of Hiroshima

Dr. Pamela Vergun, Co-Author of A Dimly Burning Wick, will be talking about her friend's experiences after the atomic bombing & their meaning for nuclear weapons.

Monday, November 10, 2008 at 7:00 PM

At the International Center of the Upstate, Greenville City Hall
206 South Main Street, Greenville, South Carolina

For more information, contact:

Dr. Patricia Marby Harrison (864) 467-4579

How is it that in the midst of one of the most horrific wartime events in history, an ordinary person can document for the world the selfless compassion of its youngest victims?

In the wake of the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Sadako Okuda tenderly describes and gives voice to the wounded children who gently cared for their siblings, parents, grandparents, and friends.

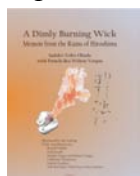

Dr. Pamela Vergun

A Dimly Burning Wick is a vivid reminder that the abolition of nuclear weapons is the most effective step toward human security.

— Martin Sherwin, Pulitzer Prize winning biographer of J. Robert Oppenheimer.

A Dimly Burning Wick may be one of the most important books of our time.

— Metro Spirit, Atlanta, Georgia.

Book Signing and Sales afterwards!

www.a-dimly-burning-wick.com